AirBoss Announces Contract Award For Land 2110 Phase 1B Chemical, Biological, Radiological, Nuclear Defence (CBRND) Project for Australian Defence Force

NEWMARKET, Ontario - AirBoss of America Corp. (TSX: BOS) announced today that AirBoss Defense, the defense products line of its Engineered Products segment, has been awarded components of the personal protective equipment portion of the Land 2110 Phase 1B program for the Australia Defence Force (ADF), from Leidos Australia Pty Ltd. (Leidos). In partnership with Leidos, AirBoss Defense will deliver critical capability in the area of Chemical, Biological, Radiological and Nuclear Defence (CBRND) to the ADF by supplying its gloves, overboots and recently-commercialized Low Burden Mask. The value of the contract is expected to be USD$11 Million plus any potential revenue from an initial five-year support phase. Deliveries under the contract are expected to commence in 2019 and continue through 2023.

The primary objective of Phase 1B of the Land 2110 program is to provide force protection to deployed ADF personnel, assigned coalition personnel, and designated civilians, both offshore and within Australia, against extant and emerging Chemical, Biological, Radiological, and Nuclear (CBRN) threats, including environmental hazards. Additional objectives of the ADF's CBRN capabilities are to enhance support to other government agencies in domestic CBRN incidents, and to assist integration in a coordinated government effort.

This award represents the second major adoption by a modern military of AirBoss Defense's state-of-the-art Low Burden Mask (LBM). The LBM was designed and developed to be the world's most advanced gas mask with a state-of-the-art lens, optical viewing area, improved fit, and reduced breathing resistance. The LBM has seen strong adoption since its introduction by AirBoss Defense.

AirBoss Defense is a world leader in the design, development, and manufacture of CBRN personal protective equipment, as well as protection against communicable diseases and respiratory threats, for the individual, First Responder, Medical, Military, Law Enforcement, Fire and Industrial communities. For more than 40 years, AirBoss Defense has supplied military and first-response forces worldwide with hand wear, footwear, and respiratory protection from CBRN agents and extreme cold weather.
